DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Oakton Hotel is located on a rise above Route 40 at Strawn, at the Pennsylvania State line. The hillside below the facade of the hotel is held by a stone retaining wall. The site is engulfed in tall grass and heavy brush.

The hotel is a two-story, gable-roofed rectangular structure with a gable end facade. The facade points SW and measures three bays across. The SE elevation measures four bays and the NW elevation measures three bays across. The NE elevation is not fenestrated.

The hotel rests on a low cut stone foundation and is constructed of vertical planks covered with German siding. The windows have simple cornices and plain board surrounds. All sashes are missing. The central bay on the facade holds doors on both the first and second floors. The roof is covered with tar paper over standing seam metal.

According to a neighbor, a portion of the structure at the NE elevation has been taken down. A break in the German siding on the facade, exposing the plank construction, indicates that a one-story, half-hipped porch at one time adorned the facade.

The interior is unknown. The site is abandoned and in a near ruinous state.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

According to a neighbor, Mrs. Ruth Wirsing, the Oakton Hotel was built in the late 1800's by one Ed Nicklow. At this time, the settlement at Strawn was known as Oakton. It was later sold to Jonas Platter, who sold it to Mrs. Wirsing's family. She and her brothers and sisters were born there. The hotel has been abandoned for some time.
